

TechSkills to offer Boston University Corporate Education Center classes in St. Louis

BUCEC Project Management curriculum available for the first time in St. Louis

St. Louis, Missouri – December 12, 2006 – TechSkills, LLC announced today that it will offer Boston University Corporate Education Center (BUCEC) Project Management classes at the TechSkills St. Louis campus. Classes begin in January, and include Project Management Fast Track and Concepts of Project Management.

Project Management Fast Track is designed for program managers, project managers, and project leaders with at least 2-4 years of experience managing project teams and a working knowledge of the PMBOK® Guide, who are interested in obtaining their PMP® certification. This 5-day class enables students to earn 3.5 CEUs (35 PDUs) required to sit for the PMP® certificate exam.

Concepts of Project Management is a 2-day class, primarily designed for professionals who have had or will have project management responsibilities, and/or project team members. It enables students to earn 1.4 CEUs (14 PDUs).

For organizations or individuals seeking to gain project management training fundamentals, earn a project management certificate, or get PMI® PMP® or CAPM® exam preparation training, The Boston University Corporate Education Center curriculum provides:

- Top-notch, real-world skills and case studies designed to improve your visibility within your organization and provide the expertise you need to advance your career;
- Industry thought leaders teaching every project management training class; and
- Day and evening classes to fit the schedules of busy professionals

“We are delighted to be able to offer BUCEC’s industry-leading Project Management curriculum in St. Louis,” said Tony Hausmann, TechSkills’ St. Louis Campus Director. “This is a wonderful opportunity for professionals in the region to master new skills and advance their careers.”

Classes begin in January, and class sizes are limited. Individuals or organizations interested in enrolling may visit www.projectmanagement07.com or call toll-free 1-888-967-5455 for more information.
